Now you have the chance to see inside the minds of angry and controlling men-and to change your life. In this groundbreaking book, a counselor who specializes in working with abusive men show you how to improve, survive, or leave an abusive relationship.	Lundy	Bancroft	2002

VICTIM STORIES

Book Title	Description	Author's First Name	Author's Last Name	Year
Class Action: The Story of Lois Jenson	In the coldest reaches of northern Minnesota, a group of women endured a shocking degree of sexual harassment-until one of them stepped forward and sued the company that had turned a blind eye to their pleas for help. Jenson v. Eveleth Mines, the first sexual harassment class action in America, permanently changed the legal landscape as well as the lives of the women who fought the battle.	Clara	Bingham	2002
Daddy's Girl: A Memoir	The first-person account of the author's abuse suffered as a child.	Charlotte	Allen	2002
Dear Stupid, Letters to My Wounded Child Within	Experience my journey of recovery from childhood sexual abuse. Little by little I learned how to get acquainted with my spunky child within. As I got to know her, our relationship progressed from hatred into trust. By looking through the window of my soul and following my path to wholeness, I hope you receive comfort and hope or learn how to support a loved one who is trying to heal. Zandra Bridger	Zandra	Bridger	1999
Funny-He Doesn't Look Like A Murderer But Margie is Dead, Books	Bostrom shares her family's head-on collision with the tragic results of domestic violence, dispelling the myth that this doesn't happen in middle-class, educated families. She courageously tells of the permanent grief that has come to define her own life as she strives to give meaning to Margie's death and keep her memory alive.	Shirley	Bostrom	2002
Grace Notes	Early in her marriage, Brace Loring became the victim of her husband's sudden, unpredictable rages. Taking her infant daughter and a few belongings, Grace got into her car and fled to the safety of her brother Gus's home in Vermont. Grace becomes a successful author with devoted fans. Grace has several e-mail correspondence with a troubled woman, who may or may not be who she says she is.	Charlotte	Allen	2002
My Story...Our Story of Re-Building Broken Lives, Women's Centre, Bombay	"This is not a short story nor fictionalized autobiography, but true facts about my life. Truth has many facets, many dimensions. But this is the truth about my situation, as I perceived it."	Agnes	Flavia	1998

Roller Coaster of My Life	Adopted into a wealthy California family, I had what appeared, on the surface, to be a perfect life. But behind closed doors, there was abuse. Beatings. Verbal abuse. Terror. As a young adult, I took off on my own, only to enter in to a number of abusive relationships. The roller coaster track I have been on has taught me many things.	Liza	Prael	2004
The House of Gentle Men	In a year of war sixteen-year-old Charlotte embarked on a mission of love, only to be set upon by three soldiers in training in a lonely, isolated section of the forest. A heartrending and ultimately transcendent tale at once shattering and poignantly beautiful-an unforgettable modern fable of secrets and salvations that stares into the darkest abyss of human behavior and celebrates the strength of heart and purpose that leads the strongest out.	Kathy	Hepinstall	2000
The House of Spirits	A fictional novel showing a magnificent saga of the proud and passionate men and women in the Trueba family and the turbulent times through which they suffer and triumph.	Isabel	Allende	1985
Transcending: Reflections of Crime Victims	This book consists of reflections of women and men who have undergone our worst nightmares. These survivors of violent crime speak of tragedy and trauma, but they don't stop there. They go on to describe and reflect on their journeys to work through these experiences and to build new lives.	Howard	Zehr	2001
Waverly Place	In Waverly Place , the imaginative powers of a true novelist are brought to bear on the search to understand the tragedy of battery and child abuse, to comprehend the incomprehensible. But the novel is also a story superbly told, with vividly observed characters behaving all too humanly: lawyers and doctors marketing the infants of desperate teenagers; women and men (both as parents and as daughters and sons) struggling with the give and take of love; neighbors and professional colleagues and their swings between caring and aloofness.	Susan	Miller	1989
When Katie Wakes	In this piercing memoir, Fowler chronicles the emotional battery and physical abuse that marked her own passage to adulthood. She draws a searing portrait of growing up with her manipulative and needy mother, a woman unable to give her the love and comfort every child has a right to expect.	Connie	Fowler	2002

The Color Purple	The story of two sisters-one a missionary to Africa and the other a child wife living in the South-who remain loyal to one another across time, distance, and silence. Beautifully imagined and deeply compassionate, this classic of American literature is rich with passion, pain, inspiration, and an indomitable love of life.	Alice	Walker	1982
The Bluest Eye	Pecola Breedlove, a young black girl, prays every day for beauty. Mocked by other children for the dark skin, curly hair, and brown eyes that set her apart, she yearns for the blond hair and blue eyes that she believes will allow her to finally fit in. Yet as her dream grows more fervent, her life slowly starts to disintegrate in the face of adversity and strife.	Toni	Morrison	2007

Color of Violence the incite! Anthology	What would it take to end violence against women of color? How does the mainstream antiviolence movement help/ How does it hinder? When will we admit that repositioning women of color at the center of the movement-women more often harmed by the police, prisons, and border patrols than aided by them-means that we must address state violence?	INCITE! Women Of Color Against Violence		2006
Domestic Violence at the Margins: Readings on Race, Class, Gender, and Culture.	This anthology reorients the field of domestic violence research by bringing long-overdue attention to the structural forms of oppression in communities marginalized by race, ethnicity, religion, sexuality, or social class.	Natalie &amp; Christina	Sokoloff &amp; Pratt	2005
Knowing What We Know: African American Women's Experiences of violence and Violation	Bringing together a series of life-history interviews with nine women, this unique study urges a departure from established approaches that position women as victims of exclusively male violence. Instead, Garfield explores what happens when women's ability to make decisions and act upon those choices comes into conflict with cultural and social constraints.	Gail	Garfield	2005
Searching For Connection: An Exploration of Trauma, Culture, and Hope	Through a series of personal stories and case studies an expert on trauma shows us the common factors that allow individuals and communities to survive and overcome the most devastating experiences. Unique to the book is the compelling connection that emerges between human trauma and the traumatic losses now evident in our natural environment.	Karen	Merriam	2006
Violence in the Lives of Black Women: Battered, Black, and Blue	Sheds new light on an understudied field. For too long. Black women have been suffering the effects of violence in painful silence. This book provides a forum where personal testimony and academic research meet to show you how living at the intersection of many kinds of oppression shapes the lives of Black women.	Carolyn M.	West, PhD	2002

Analysis and Policy Implications of the New Domestic Violence Police Studies	Research on police interaction with domestic violence.	Joan & Laurie	Zorza & Woods	1994
Crossing the Threshold: Female Officers and Police-Perpetrated Domestic Violence	Diane has bravely documented and talked about the extraordinary challenges these victims face when the violent perpetrator is a law enforcement officer who is armed and has friends in the criminal justice system.	Diane	Wetendorf	2006
Domestic Violence: The Criminal Justice Response (third edition)	Domestic Violence is unique in its emphasis on the victim's perspective, including the victim's needs as well as preferences for and satisfaction with intervention. It documents the diversity of victims and how this diversity affects their service needs and the impact of interventions, including unanticipated consequences of current aggressive efforts.	Eve & Carl	Buzawa & Buzawa	2003
Ethics in Victim Services	This book is an excellent resource for organizations that are seeking to develop, implement and monitor their own ethical standards. It provides a user-friendly, ethical decision-making model and inventive case studies that make the book an excellent toolbox.	Melissa	Hook	2005
Mandatory Arrest: Problems and Possibilities	Research on mandatory arrest.	Joan & Laurie	Zorza & Woods	1994
Responding to Spouse Abuse & Wife Beating: A Guide For Police	A report of an intensive, year-long examination of existing police department policies and procedures for handling spouse abuse and wife beating cases, the legal and traditional underpinnings of those practices, and the newly developing concepts for improving police handling of these cases. Battered Wives (Second Edition)	This book includes critical summaries of the legal and political status of battered wives and the extent to which their immediate predicament must be understood in broad political terms.	Del	Martin	1981
Battered Women in The Courtroom: The Power of Judicial Responses	Recent laws have given women much needed rights in seeking protection from abusive men, but judges still hold the authority to issue restraining orders or send batterers to jail. While most studies on state intervention for victims have focused on the role of police, Battered Women in the Courtroom probes for the first time the ways in which judges respond to women who are seeking legal redress.	James	Ptacek	1999
Counselling Survivors of Domestic Abuse	Explains how counsellors can facilitate recovery from domestic abuse within a secure, supportive therapeutic relationship.	Christiane	Sanderson	2008
Everyday Harm: Domestic Violence, Court Rites, and Cultures of Reconciliation	Studies the limits of what domestic violence law can and cannot accomplish. Combining detailed ethnographic research and theoretical analysis, Mindie illustrates the ways persistent cultural norms and ingrained bureaucratic procedures work to unravel laws designed to protect the safety of society's most vulnerable people.	Mindie	Lazarus-Black	2007
Safety Planning With Battered Women: Complex Lives/Difficult Choices	Introduces a new model of "woman-defined" advocacy that is designed to bridge the gap that sometimes occurs between a battered woman's perspective and a victim advocate's perception.	Jill, Eleanor & Diane	Davies, Lyon & Monti-Catania	1998

Strategic Plan For The Judicial Branch: Public Service and Trust Commission	Strategic plan for the Connecticut Judicial Branch.	Connecticut Judicial Branch		2008

American Woman 1987-88: A Report in Depth, The	An authoritative source that provides current information about the status of women and women's issues in America. It examines women in the economy, women in the political process, women and the family, women of color, women in the theater, military, media, business, sports, and science.	Sara	Rix	1987
Battered Wives	In every neighborhood, among families of every social and economic class, an alarming number of women are beaten by their mates-frequently, savagely, and for prolonged periods of time-yet they are virtually powerless to act in their own defense. Battered Wives examines the factors behind this widespread crime, and offers specific guidance for its victims.	Del	Martin	1976
Blue-Collar Jobs For Women	Complete guide to getting skilled and getting a high-paying job in the trade.	Muriel	Leder	1979
Blue-Collar Marriage	Study of working-class families, solid citizens active in the labor force who function pretty much unaided by existing social programs.	Mirra	Komar	1967
Coercive Control: How Men Entrap Women In Personal Life	Stark argues that interventions have failed to improve women's long-term safety in relationships or to hold perpetrators accountable. Men use a largely unidentified form of subjugation that more closely resembles kidnapping or indentured servitude than assault called "coercive control".	Evan	Stark	2007
The Curious Courtship of Women's Liberation and Socialism		Batya	Weinbaum	1978
Dreamers & Dealers: An Intimate Appraisal of the Women's Movement	Fritz comes to grips with the questions many of us are asking now, in the second decade of the women's movement. What 's really been happening/ What's going on behind the scenes/ Who are the important figures/ Where does the movement go from here? A provocative book of rare insight that pulls it all together.	Leah	Fritz	1979

Enemies of Choice: The Right-To-Life Movement and its Threat To Abortion	True story of the people and politics behind the Right-to-Live movement. From firsthand information and interviews, investigative journalist Andrew H. Merton takes the wraps off what the pro-choice movement is all about.	Andrew	Merton	1981

Houseworker's Handbook	Housework: Slavery or a labor of love? A matter of dollars & sense.	Betsy & Lisa	Warrior & Leghorn	1975
License To Rape: Sexual Abuse of Wives	1 wife out of 10 is raped by her husband. Yet according to laws in more than half of the states, while a man can be prosecuted for raping a female, he cannot be charged if the victim is his wife.	David & Kersti	Finkelhor & Yllo	1985
The Macho Paradox: Why Some Men Hurt Women and How All Men Can Help	There are two overarching tasks to this book. One task is to disrupt commonly shared perceptions about sexual violence that depoliticise it and remove it from issues of power and gender. These include the notion that violence against women is perpetrated by crazed predators leaping out from bushes, and that talking about and organising around violence against women is really a form of male-bashing. The second task is about making connections between broader social and cultural practices that enable and maintain violence against women to be a feature of our society. Katz suggests that the mores of male peer culture, the music of rappers such as Eminem, and the pervasive effects of pornography all provide common languages and alibis that excuse and normalise men's violence against women.	Jackson	Katz	2006
Nobody Speaks For Me! Self-Portraits of American Working Class Women	Oral histories of ten working-class women who are leaders, fighters, activists, doers in their communities, women who are challenging the stereotype of the working-class woman as dependent, passive, and uninvolved	Nancy	Seifer	1976
