385 Educated in Prevention and Education Trainings

On the survey day, 385 individuals in communities across Connecticut attended 24 training sessions provided by local domestic violence programs, gaining much needed information on domestic violence prevention and early intervention.

75 Unmet Requests for Services In One Day

Of these unmet requests, 38 were from victims seeking emergency shelter or transitional housing.

Programs reported that lack of staffing was a reason that they could not meet domestic violence victims' request for services. 44% of programs have less than 20 paid staff, including 25% of programs that have less than 10 paid staff. The average starting salary of a full-time, salaried front-line advocate is $29,125.

Attorneys

Victims of domestic violence often need legal assistance with restraining orders and civil and family court matters. Of programs that participated in the Census, only 15% of programs reported being able to regularly connect a victim requesting legal assistance with an attorney.

"As the economy worsens, domestic violence has become a deeper, more concentrated epidemic. More financial constraints are being placed on victims making it more difficult for them to survive."

"A nonshelter client who has been in counseling for over a year had be treated for high blood pressure because of the stress at home. She is raising her two grandsons and is trying to remain in the home until the boys graduate from high school. But the abuse is escalating and she may need to leave."
