

Survivor Leadership Committee

Help lead change in Connecticut's response to domestic violence!

About the Committee

CCADV is kicking off a Survivor Leadership Committee that seeks to engage and empower domestic violence survivors to share their lived experiences and effectuate meaningful change. This includes uplifting their voices to educate the public about domestic violence from a survivor's perspective, giving a face to a public health crisis that impacts more women than breast cancer and diabetes combined. We embrace members' knowledge and experiences to guide our work of strengthening survivor safety, rights and protections, including both our internal systemic response and service provision, as well as our external systems advocacy. This is NOT a support group.

Member Activities

- Attend monthly meetings
- Assist in recruitment & outreach
- Provide feedback on services and policy initiatives
- Help educate the public about domestic violence from a survivor's perspective

Why Join?

- Empower your voice and the voices of other survivors
- Advocate for change on behalf of all survivors
- Participate in professional development opportunities
- Create a network of survivors who share their experiences, philosophies, and goals

To Apply

Visit ctcadv.org or scan the QR code to access the committee application.

